

Keeping kids learning

Here are some of our favourite tips for keeping kids learning:

- Read for an hour per day! Look up “best books of all time”, school reading lists, or simply pick a book and READ!
- Write/Journal: This will prove an important historical event, spend a little time documenting it each day; this will help you academically, as well as positively boost your social and emotional health.
- Remote Career Expo: Engage with your relatives remotely, and find out more about their career, how and why they chose that path, and their opinion of the pros and cons of the career.
- Compassion Project: keeping a safe distance, how can you help your neighbor or a relative? Write positive and encouraging letters to the elderly, first responders, or medical employees, have the notes delivered to assisted living facilities or hospitals.
- Independent passion project: You have a unique opportunity to do more with your free time:
 - Learn something new! What is it you wish you knew how to do but never had the time to do it?
 - Learn how to paint a room, cook a meal, or knit a hat. Wash your mum’s car, or learn how to change a tyre.
 - Learn basic coding
 - Fix your bike, or complete a project around the house.
 - Watch YouTube lessons on a variety of personal interests.
 - Work out daily!
 - Plan a games night with your family.

If you can think of other ways you can keep learning, let us know so we can share it!